

ACADEMIC ADVANCEMENT PROGRAM

• AAP Mission Statement

UCLA's Academic Advancement Program has a threefold mission: first, to ensure the academic success, retention, and graduation of all AAP students; second, to inform and prepare AAP students for graduate and professional schools; and, third, to help students develop the academic, scientific, political, economic, and community leadership necessary to lead and transform our society in the twenty-first century.

- AAP encourages students to explore their talents and abilities, believe in themselves, set the highest standards for themselves, aspire to academic and personal excellence, utilize the full range of campus resources, and develop a sense of community and social responsibility.

AAP Provides Students with:

- Academic Counseling
- Graduate and Professional School Mentoring
- Peer Learning
- Research Opportunities
- Innovative Science Programs
- Computer Lab
- Scholarship

Freshman/Transfer Summer Program

“AAP is one of the jewels of the undergraduate experience at UCLA.”

– Professor Judi Smith,
Former Vice Provost of Undergraduate Education

ACADEMIC ADVANCEMENT PROGRAM

Freshman and Transfer Summer Program (F/TSP)

The six-week, academic residential program is held late July through mid September. F/TSP introduces and prepares students for the academic demands of UCLA.

- Receive personal attention from professors, counselors, peer learning facilitators and peer counselors;
- Live on campus with F/TSP students of diverse backgrounds;
- Gain academic confidence;
- Form lasting friendships and networks;
- Connect with campus programs, re-sources and research opportunities;
- Earn units towards your degree.

ACADEMIC SERVICES

Academic Counseling

AAP Academic Counselors provide students with information about university requirements and academic opportunities, as well as, personal support and guidance.

Peer Counseling

AAP Peer Counselors (PCs) are undergraduate students who work closely with AAP academic counselors to further students' academic and personal success. PCs also provide support while living with students in the residence hall.

Peer Learning

AAP Peer Learning Facilitators (PLFs) help to strengthen student's ability to think critically, read analytically, write proficiently, reason quantitatively, and study effectively, while mastering course materials.
